Insurance Deals Eyed

37th Division Men • Protected From Gyps

COLUMBUS, March 8-(A)-Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber has taken steps to prevent members of the 37th Infantry Division from being bilked by "questionable" insurance

Many of the former Ohio National Guardsmen, who now are training at Camp Polk, La., have bought 20-year endowment policies from small insurance firms, then dropped them after a few months because they could not afford them.

The agents and insurance companies then keep the money the soldiers have paid in.

In a letter to Walter A. Robinson, Ohio superintendent of insurance, Kreber said he was posting orders regulating insurance sales in order to control "the indiscriminate sale of insurance by questionable companies."

Kreber said $15 million worth of life insurance was sold to another National Guard division which trained at Camp Polk last year. even though every member of the division had $10,000 worth of National Service Life Insurance.

MANY OF THE firms currently selling insurance in Camp Polk are licensed in Texas, where a license can be obtained if a firm has a capitalization of only $10,000. Ohio law requires a capitalization of $100,000 and other requirements.

MUNSAN, March 8-(A)-A UN truce negotiator Saturday bluntly accused the Communists of secretly imprisoning captured Allied soldiers - including Americans - in Red China.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho called the charge a "fabrication" and a further attempt to delay the armistice negotiations. Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, the UN negotiator, also accused the Reds of "threatening" the UN Command in a statement lambasting its treatment of war prisoners.

Simultaneously, another group of Communist negotiators backed down on an attempt to write into an armistice a ban on a possible naval blockade of the China coast. "We have convincing evidence that you are holding prisoners in detention camps outside of Korea without reporting them to our side," Libby said. "This evidence has reached us from too many sources to be ignored or lightly

Suppose your child has a noticeable scar or birthmark or facial or head irregularity. What may you do to help him to accept it without shame or embarrassment? Of course, the matter might be corrected by surgery, and should be, if possible. But in the raeanwhile, or if the irregularity is likely to be permanent, what may be done psychologically to help this child?

The first essential is for his parents to accept the matter without feelings or show of emotions. This means they won't bother to explain constantly "how it happened." You have observed parents who always

THEN THERE ALWAYS are curious persons who ask all sorts of questions right before the child, or of him if he is old enough to try to answer. Usually the parent replies, no matter to whom the interrogation is addressed. Moreover. this parent may go on and on in great detail, repeating the same over and over with new guests.

In meeting the morbid curiosity of other persons, the wise parent answers in a matter-of-fact way. "Born that way," or "an accident," and quickly shifts the conversation, with the attitude that it is not anybody's business. Then the child may do likewise.

There are children noticeably oversize or undersize-very short, very tall, very light or very heavy-for their ages. Their playmates may dub them by descriptive nicknames like Peanut, Tubby, Skinny, Short, Half-pint, thus reminding them of their physical irregularity. Sometimes we can induce the playmates to agree on a more acceptable nickname. These Days

Civilization has produced two institutions which are universal in a variety of forms. They are the church in its manifold arrangements and the state in its numerous organizations. Sometimes they are identical; sometimes one controls the other; sometimes they have actually been antagonistic to each other.

Whatever the historic circumstances. these two institutions survive all the vicissitudes of time and history. The Moslem civilization, for instance, united the church and state, until after World War I, when nationalism appeared in the Arabic world as it already had among the Turks of the Ottoman empire. Nationalism separates church from state, even subordinating the church to the authority of the state.

In Czarist Russia, the state controlled the church, the head of the orthodox church being the Czar, with its management vested in the procurator of the Holy Synod, a lay government official.

WASHINGTON, March 8 -

"Senator Taft," writes E.H.P. of Northampton, Mass., "has been quoted as saying that, if Southeast Asia could not defend itself without active American military support, it would have to fall to the Communists. "If this happens, it would pose a serious threat to Australia and New Zealand. In your opinion, what would Mr. Taft do, if he were President and an active threat to Australia was made by GUARANTEE -- I cannot conceive of any American President standing aside while the Reds conquered Australia and New Zealand, E.H.P. apparently forgets that we have negotiated an offensive-defensive pact with both those countries. They insisted on this guarantee as a condition to agreeing to the final peace treaty we made with Japan.

However, the question is not so much as to what Taft would do, but as to what the United Nations or the United States would do. The reason why so many peoples around the world, especially in the Middle East and Far East, fear and suspect and distrust us, is because we have no definite or settled policy in those areas. To make it worse, Stalin has a specific and known objective-conquest.

DEFENSE - In defining our Pacific defense perimeter, Secretary Acheson left out Korea, Formosa and the Philippines. We withdrew our forces from South Korea without training a native arm. Then when the North Korean Reds invaded, we went to war there.

We built up Chiang Kai-shek as a world hero during World War II. Then we sold him down the river at Yalta to Stalin, and. finally, withdrew our support PRIZE - As of the moment,

It would give the Reds endless

Pickaway Garden Club Hears Two Speakers

Mrs. Carpenter Is Hostess

Mrs. J. O. Eagleson and Mrs. James Carpenter were speakers Friday evening when members of the Pickaway Garden club met at the home of Mrs Dudley Carpenter, North Pickaway street.

Mrs. Eagleson related that there is very little known of St. Patrick who is said to have been born near Kilpatrick, Ireland, about 389 A.D. At the age of 16 years he was carried off by Irish marauders, and held in bondage for six years, then escaped on a ship exporting Irish wolf dogs, which landed on the West Coast of Gaul, now France. After two months he parted from his companions and took up residence in a monastery in South Gaul, remaining there several Upon returning to Ireland, he had dreams and visions of a religious nature, and again he returned to Gaul, for further preparation and study and remained 14 years. He was ordained as a deacon, and it was then he returned to Ireland, probably about 440 A.D. He worked mostly with the pagans of Ireland," who already had had some Christian teaching, and he helped them organize, and teach in their work. "Do you not see," he said, "in this wild flower, how three leaves are united on one stalk, and will you not then believe what I tell you, that there are indeed three Persons, and yet one God"

St. Patrick continued his work in Ireland for 40 years, and died at a very advanced age.

The Shamrock has many uses in England, the flowers are often called, Cuckoo Meat, and Cuckoo Bread, because it blooms when birds return.

In some parts of Europe it is given the name Allelnia, because it blooms near Easter, and is also used as Illus of Trinity.

"African Violets" was the topic used by Mrs. James Carpenter for her address and she opened her talk with the question, "Do you know that African or Usambra violets, are very commonly referred to especially in our magazines as, Saint-Paulia"? It was named years ago by the Hannover botanist, Wendland, who named it for its discoverer, Walter von Saint Paul. To date there are approximately

NEW YORK-P-The U. S. postman is one of America's best but least recognized educators.

He is a walking library on bunions, a traveling professor for the great university of the common man—the postal service.

This silent teacher delivers the world's knowledge in the worn leather bag slung from his shoulder. It is the 20th Century version of Pandora's box, bringing endless tidings to mankind of old dismay and fresh hope-a draft notice here, a dividend check

He is messenger of death and birth, a keeper of tremendous secrets in small envelopes. the mute go-between for lovers, a salesman who works for the price of a stamp for distant

Over the years the postman stirs more hearts than anyone. People wait tensely or eagerly for the sound of his footsteps on the walk, his whistle at the front porch-signals of the arrival of his daily cargo of magic and disenchantment. His reward for wading through snowdrifts to reach the family mailbox is at best a cup of hot coffee; more

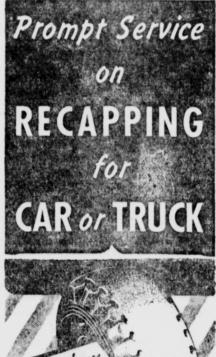

"is that all you brought?" Bad weather and bad dogs ambush him, and he learns to bear

He comes to know his neighborhood better than the cop on the beat, and he is harder to fool. He doesn't have to read the postcards to tell who is having a wonderful time. He doesn't have to open the letters to tell who is being dunned for non-payment of bills, what member of the family has gone away for his health, which college lad is writing home

By the number and nature of his mail deliveries he knows who girl is getting along with her beau and which isn't. When little Johnny comes galloping out to grab a letter from a correspondence course in muscle-building, he understands the situation at

"I guess it won't be long now

The weather, the dogs, and the people he meets turn him generally into a tolerant philosopher.

For Congress

Joseph I. Williams Why Vote?

Because you who would save your home, your farm, your job, your standard of living, your savings, your insurance, and the future of your children, must require qualifications for the office of Congressman to be of a high order. This is not an ordinary election; these are not normal times.

Your Congressman can give away to a Socialistic and despotic Federal government all the things that make your life worthwhile.

Your vote in the Primary to se lect your candidate for Congress is important to you and your Country. More important than your selection of the Governor of Ohio. You must have a man who will express your ideas aggressively, who knows the fatal defects of Socialism, and can prove the case that Capitalism is the only system that can support "economic justice", and maintain

We dare not make our selection in these dangerous times on the basis that the candidate "is a nice guy' or "he's our boy" or that "one political job deserves another". We must know that our man has more qualifications than political opportunism or political ambition.
